WHAT IS DUAL ENROLLMENT?

The Dual Enrollment Program at Central Carolina Technical College allows high school and home schooled students the opportunity to make substantial progress toward their college education before finishing a high school degree. In some cases a student may simultaneously earn both college and high school credit. Most college courses are available to dual credit students in the classroom or online with approval from the high school and college.

D2L (Desire2Learn)

Central Carolina's internet (online) courses are taught using a learning management system called D2L, which is accessed through the "D2L" portlet on the Student tab in myCCTC.

Your instructor will provide course information, learning modules, and communication methods within the course as well as assignments, testing, and assessment procedures for the course. There are instructions about using D2L inside your course, but if you have additional questions, be sure to ask your instructor or any of the technical support staff.

Phone: (803) 774-3343 Email: distanceeducation@cctech.edu
(Best option for quicker response)

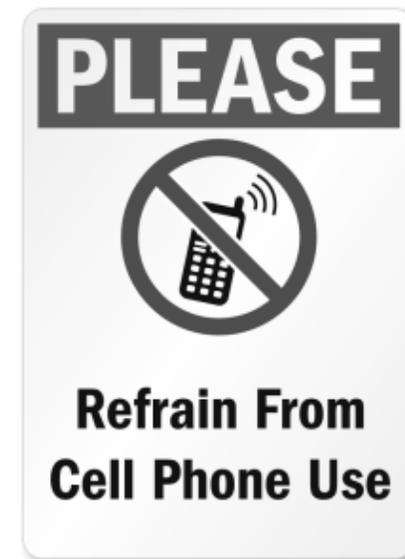

Note: D2L email is a "send only" system, meaning responses are received in myCCTC email. This is why it is essential students check their myCCTC email frequently.

CELL PHONES & ELECTRONIC DEVICES

Central Carolina Technical College's faculty, staff, and administration support an effective learning environment by placing a limitation on the use of electronic devices such as cell phones. Students are not allowed to have their cell phones in "active" mode that will create a noise or disruption to the class, lab, or clinical environment during the instructional time under any circumstances unless a college emergency exists.

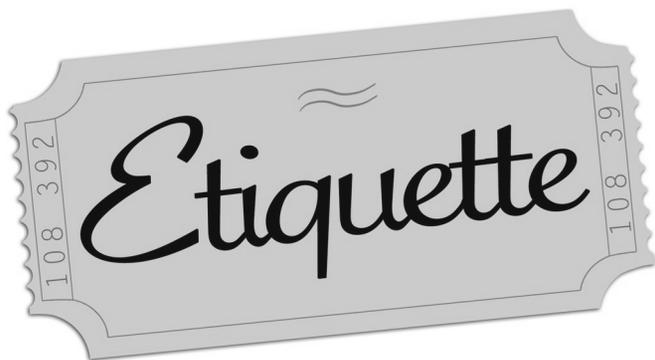

The use of recording devices or laptop or notebook computers is at the discretion of the faculty member. Individuals who violate this policy may be subject to disciplinary action.

CLASSROOM ETIQUETTE & CONDUCT

Students are expected to comply with all course requirements as specified by instructors in the course syllabi and to meet the standards of acceptable classroom behavior set by instructors. Instructors will announce these standards during the first week of classes. If a student's behavior disrupts class or jeopardizes the health, safety, or well-being of the student or others, the instructor will speak with the student regarding the disruption. If the unacceptable conduct or disruption continues, the instructor may dismiss the student for the remainder of the class period.

Further disruption(s) by the student may result in a second dismissal and a written referral to the Chief Student Services Officer. This written referral may result in the initiation of disciplinary action against the student.

ATTENDANCE

It is important to come to class every day and on time. As a Central Carolina Technical College student, you may not be absent more than 20 percent of the attendance period (the first day of class to the date designated as the withdrawal deadline).

An absence is defined as missing the entire class session. In addition, tardiness and early exit from class are disruptive to the learning environment. Students coming in late (tardy) after the instructor has taken roll, or leaving before class is dismissed will receive a one half (1/2) absence.

ONLINE ATTENDANCE REQUIREMENTS

Central Carolina Technical College expects students to participate in all instructional activities. Online courses are no different from traditional classroom courses in this regard; however, participation is defined in a different manner.

Student "attendance" in online courses is defined as active participation in the course as described in the individual course syllabus. Online courses will, at a minimum, have weekly mechanisms for student participation, which can be documented by any or all of the following methods: student tracking records in the online system; submission/completion of assignments; and communication with the instructor.

A student who does not login to the course site within the drop/add period and complete the first assignment for the course will be dropped from the course. Drop/add and withdrawal dates are listed in the academic calendar. A student who fails to maintain active participation in an online course as defined in the course syllabus will be processed in accordance with the current college attendance policy.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BECOME A COLLEGE STUDENT?

When a high school student enrolls in a college class, that student effectively becomes a college student the moment they step into the classroom. The expectations, experiences, and policies that apply to the traditional college student now also apply to the high school student taking college classes. Unlike high school, the college student is expected to independently manage their academic success.

The student has the responsibility of regular attendance, completing work by established deadlines, and communicating with their instructor regarding all course matters. College instructors are much more rigid on deadlines than high school teachers. In the college setting, late submissions of work are usually not permitted and extra credit assignments are not usually offered. Missed work is accepted at the instructor's discretion. If a student misses a class session, it is the student's responsibility to obtain notes from a classmate. Students should always check their myCCTC email and their D2L course page for information when a class is missed.
